

Primate Classification

- Order Primates
 - Suborder Prosimii
 - Superfamily Lemuroidea
 - Superfamily Lorioidea
 - Superfamily Tarsioidea
 - Suborder Anthropoidea
 - Infraorder Platyrrhini
 - Family Cebidae
 - Family Callitrichidae
 - Infraorder Catarrhini
 - Superfamily Cercopithecoidea
 - Superfamily Hominoidea
 - Family Hylobatidae
 - Genus Hylobates
 - Family Pongidae
 - Genus Pongo
 - Genus Gorilla
 - Genus Pan
 - Family Hominidae
 - Genus Homo

The lemur is a lowly brute;
 His primate status some dispute.
 He has a damp and longish snout
 With lower front teeth leaning out.
 He parts his fur with this comb-jaw,
 and scratches with a single claw
 That still adorns a hinder digit
 Whenever itching makes him fidget.
 He is arboreal and omnivorous;
 From more about him, Lord deliver us!

-- Earnest A. Hooton

